

Bipolar: episodes, baseline and support

Original support worksheet | Adults | Reviewed 2026-10-10

Use fictional or appropriately de-identified notes. Write, draw, dictate or point. Not a validated measure, diagnostic test or crisis service.

Usual baseline: Sleep need, energy, commitments

Change begins: Date and first noticed signs

Cluster develops: Sleep + mood + activity + consequences

Support / treatment: What was offered; what was chosen

Recovery / new baseline: Function and residual difficulties

My usual sleep and energy pattern

Dates of changes and what else was happening

Decisions or roles affected; whose report is this?

Agreed early contact and support plan

Next step: who will do what, by when, and how will we review helpfulness or harm?

Rapidly escalating activation, unsafe decisions, inability to care for basic needs, suicidal thinking, psychosis or substantial sleep loss with rising energy needs prompt clinical assessment; imminent danger or medical instability uses the local urgent response pathway.
